What did Jesus mean when He said, 'He who is without sin can cast the first stone?' Jesus' statement "If any one of you is without sin, let him be the first to cast a stone at her." John [1] Jesus went unto the mount of Olives. But Jesus stooped down, and with his finger wrote on the ground, as though he heard them not. [7] So when they continued asking him, he lifted up himself, and said unto them, He that is without sin among you, let him first cast a stone at her. Then they reminded Jesus that adultery was punishable by stoning under Mosaic law and challenged him to judge the woman so that they might then accuse him of disobeying the law. Jesus thought for a moment and then replied, "He that is without sin among you, let him cast the first stone at her." An allusion to an utterance of Jesus' in John, viz. "He that is without sin among you, let him first cast a stone at her." When they kept on questioning him, he straightened up and said to them, "Let any one of you who is without sin be the first to throw a stone at her." Jesus and the woman taken in adultery is a passage (pericope) found in the Gospel of John. Jesus says that he, too, does not condemn her, and tells her to go and sin no more. When they kept on questioning him, he straightened up and said to them, "Let anyone among you who is without sin be the first to throw a stone at her. But he said he would include the story in the Bible, because of its long and sin no more or Let him who is without sin cast the first stone. .

'Let Him Who Is Without Sin Cast the First Stone' - The Book of Life is the 'brain' of He doesn't categorically deny the mob the right to stone the woman to death.
